sens of the parties.

Glegow, Oct. 12, 1798.

The parties having differed between themselves, found it nocessary, for their mutual interest and advantage, as well as for the satisfaction and safety of their Creditors, to assign over to three of the principal Creditors, as Trustees for behoof of the whole, their stock of Goods and the Debts owing to the concern. And, as the trustees themselves cannot attend to the management of and carrying on the business, and tehy having confidence in John Nealson, Machine-maker, John Street, Glasgow, one of the Partners, have appointed him to be their factor, to superintend and minage the business as formerly, carried on by the said Collier and Nealson.

Orders, addressed to him, will be punctually attended to.

From Mr Nealson's long and extensive practice of making Machinery, particularly in the Flax line, those who may please to send him their orders may depend on having them executed on the newest and best principles, and on the shortest notice.

And it is hereby intimated to those who may be owing the raid concern, that Mr Nealson is empowered to uplift the debts, and to discharge the earner, as well as to settle and discharge the debts due by them.

BRAZIL SALTS.

THE use of these Salts being now so well known for their efficacy in the Jaundice and Scarvy, and also as a gentle cooling purgative, it becomes unnecessary for the proprietor, Preston Hornby, to trouble the public with a tedious detail of their qualities. In compliance, however, with the request of a respectable person who has been benefited by them, he begs leave to publish the following

CASE.

Mr John Simpson of Aselby, near Howden, had been six years violently afflicted with a complaint in his stomach, attended with obstinate costiveness, frequent reachings, and occationally womiting a quantity of tough ragged phlegm, which to ards the last year became very black, and very much resembled the grounds of coffee. He had every advice that could be recommended, but found no relief. Seeing a case advertised in the second similar to his own, of Mr Bickers in York, who was cured by the use of the Brazil Salta, he was induced to make trial of them, and by taking one course, the disorder was entirely removed, and he has ever since remained perfectly free from the complaint.—The above is a faithful account of my tedious and painful disorder from which I am now happily relieved, by the use of the Brazil Salta, after every other means had failed, and which I request may be made known.

We continued steering towards the flay, of which we had no chart 4 the figual was now made to attack the enemy both to windward and seeward, and the Zealous and our ship were ordered to endeavour to get between and our thip were ordered to endeavour to get between the enemy's fleet and the land. We led the way, and the Zealous followed, heaving the lead as we went, and fearing every instant to strike upon a shoal. We at length weathered the van of the enemy, in five fathom water, in fpire of the batteries from the fhore, which annoyed as a good deal as we passed; we anchored close to the second ship of the enemy's line, and the Zealous took the same station with respect to the sirit. I can now only say, that the ship which the Zealous engaged, as well as that which we engaged, struck, after being very severely handled. On the morning of the 2d, the sleets were so mixed, that it was difficult to say precisely what had been our advantage; which however, it was pparent, had been very great. The blowing up of L'Orient, which happened in the night, had thrown the whole of the French squadron so much into confusion, that none of them seemed to have any disposition to renew the fight except the Tonnant, which was made to firite at length, after perference world obstinately in her resistance. The whole seet are very warm in their praise of Captain Derby of the Bellerophon. It happened in the disposition that was made, that his ship was opposed to L'Orient; be made, that his ship was opposed to L'Orient; he laid her along side in the most gallant manner, and engaged her broadside to broadside for above two hours; at the end of which time, having toft all his masts, and near 200 of his crew killed and wounded maits, and near 200 of his crew killed and wounded, he cut his cable and left her to the Alexander, which had already fired feveral broadlides into her; it is very fortunate that this step twas taken, for otherwise, it is generally supposed, the Bellerophon would have blown up with the L'Orient, from being anchored so close; the Alexander was set on fire, and received confiderable damage from the explosion; the two ships in the sear of the enemy's line and two frigates, are all. which have escaped; and there is every reason to be-lieve, that they would have been taken had not the Culloden run ashore. The Zealous, though warmly engaged, was in a state to attempt to prevent their escape, but there was no ship in the steet in a condition to support her. Every ship did its duty to the utmost. What a glorious day for Old England!

Saturday se'ennight, in the evening, the following accident took place about half way between Gravefend and London :- The Palmer of Aberdeen, Captain Rainnie, on her voyage to this place, feeing at a diftance the illuminations and other demonstrations of joy on the late glorious news, and being waiting for the tide to bring the veffel up the river, were fo anxious to know the intelligence, that the Captain and ten others went on shore, and after having passed some time in a jovial manner, returned; but by some unfortunate cir-cumstance the boat got foul of the cable, and was im-mediately overturned, by which means one failor and three passengers were drowned; the Captain and the remainder were with great difficulty faved.

A letter from Citizen Lachevardiere, Conful of the Republic at Palermo, informs us, that the king of Naples has had the audacity to declare it a capital offenc for any of his fuhjects to convey provisions to the French in Malta. What would he do if war were actually declared? Buonaparte, in spite of the Journalists of Germany and England, pursues the course of his triumph. He has formed a superb cavalry; has taken every possible presention to avoid the plague, and is advancing.

Our army has been recruited by fome of the bravelt

We are forry to flate that the Jason frigate, Captain Stirling, was loft on Saturday last near Breft, by ffriking on a rock when in chace of fix French vessels.— The crew were all faved, and made prisoners, excep fix men, who escaped, took the fix-oared cutter, and ar rived at Plymouth on Monday afternoon.

The above men had only one cheefe, a piece of boiled beef and a bottle of gine, to subsist on during their passage, which they state to have been most tempessues. indeed, the wind having blown a gale at S. W. ever fince they quitted the Jalon.

Some apprehensions are entertained that the ship spoten of in the Paris papers, as having been captured by 50 guns, which is faid to have had on board Admiral the Genereux, French man of war, is the Leander of n's dispatches, addressed to Lord St Vincent, as alfo Captain Berry, the bearer of those dispatches; and what attaches probability to this supposition is, that Lord St Vincent ought to have received them before the accounts left him, which arrived last week. We will yet hope the fact is not as thus inferred.

FINANCE

The Minister has now fallen upon a plan of finance well calculated to supply the exigencies of the State.

This plan, we learn with fatisfaction, is very nearly matured, and we are happy that we can, from good authority, present the following out-line of it.

It is proposed, and will early be submitted to Parliament, to repeal the act of the last session which laid on the increase of the affessed taxes, and to lay in lieu a tax upon every individual of the country, of whatever

All income under 60l. per annum is to be exempted. An income of 60l. a-year is to contribute a hundred and twentieth part, or ten shillings a-year to the State; and this scale to increase progressively, viz. 100l. per ann. to pay a fortieth part, or 2l. 10s. but from two hundred pounds a-year and upwards, a tenth of the annual in-

Persons in trade, or whose annual income arises from the exercise of professions, will be required to pay according to their clear annual profits, to be estimated either by the produce of the preceding year, or on an average of the three preceding years, at the option of the individual. Modifications will no doubt be eftablished, as in the present assessed taxes, in favour of the fathers of large families.

The many evalions that have been practifed in the levy of the affeffed taxes, impose upon Government the necessity of resorting to some more certain and productive mode of taxation, and it must be obvious to every one, that a tax upon income is better that one on ca-

A more sudden, and a more enfuriated mob, perhap never was known, and the narrowness of the se contributed in a great degree to the mischief which

The French army is estimated at 22,000 men, he fides marines. Admiral Bruyes found the old harbor of Alexandria unsuitable for the reception of his see, and therefore only sent the transports and some smaller thips of war into it, while he, with 13 thips of the line and forme frigates, anchored in the road of Aboukir, between Alexandria and Rosetta.

VIENNA, SEPT. 26.

According to the latest accounts from Constant the Turks promife themselves much from the as-Grand Vizir Justus Pacha, who is taking the motion tive measures, as far as the Persian frontiers, to appl Buonaparte. The Vizir, it is faid, is well : with military tactics.—The fame accounts also contains the report of the deposition of the Musti, who was maintaining a peace with the French.

The Turkish declaration of war is faid to have entaged the people against the French, that it is thought will be necessary to arrest, or banish all the French merchants, &c. out of the country.

Admiral Nelson is said to have requested some metars from the Grand Seignior to destroy the French strong at Alexandria—the rest of them is has brought to Rhodes to refut.

The Grand Seignior's refentment is not confined the agents of the French Directory and the mercha in Turkey, but even the Barataires, as they are calle confifting of Greeks, Turks, Jews, Arminians, &c. w trade by licence from the French Ambaffador .- All people of this description must be responsible for the persons and effects, and must give an account of a property belonging to the French, deposited in the hands, or purchased since the commencement of he tilities.

Adm. Nelfon had entirely recovered from the wou in his head on the 13th.

A very important declaration, it is faid, is upon oint of being made to the French Ministers at Raslad tating, that the belligerent Courts can view a part peace in no other light than a truce or cellation of arm merely adapted to the purpose of carrying on hostilian with greater effect against certain powers.—It is added that fuch proposals are to be made for a general pass as, it is prefumed, cannot be wholly disagreeable to the French Government.

Moore, mounting 42 gans, with La Refolue French frigate, of 40 guns, and 250 troops on board. La Refolue was taken by the Melampus on the 14th : brings the agreeable intelligence, that on the 12th current, the fquadron under the command of the brave Sir I. B. WARREN took La Hoche, of 120 guns, L'Ambuscade, and other two French frigates, and carried them into Loch Swilly; four fregates made their escape but were closely pursued by our vessels. La Hoch made a gallant refulance, though engaged by two of our 74's. The number of French troops is faid to have been 5000 men. La Resolue made no resistance the has loft her mizen maft, main yard, and is other wife badly damaged; only one man on board of the Melampus is wounded. We are all in great spirits, and illuminate our windows to-night.-The number taken is one fail of the line and four frigates. They have been out fix weeks from Breft.

The above particulars our corespondent received from the Captain of the Cultom House boat, who went of to the two vessels lying in Clyde.

An express was received this morning from Letter-kenny, with an enclosure from Mr STEWART, Dunfanaghy, to Lord CASTLERBAGH, stating that on Friday last, he saw with his glass, the French squadron engaged with ours off Tory island—in all 16 vessels on both sides. Mr STEWART saw two strike, and a pursuit of the rest to the westward.

Extract of a letter from Letterkenny, dated Saturday, October 13, 1798

"Yesterday morning, about three o'clock, a sea-fight began, and continued with unabated sury to eleven when there was a letter sent from shore near the fight to Letterkenny, mentioning that it was changing to a running fight. At one o'clock it still continued. The event is not known, but we have no doubt but the French will be all taken, as there is almost no wind .-The number of thips is about 16. It is a terrible fight and every gun heard in Letterkenny; and it being market day, cloth and yarn notwithstanding are felling as high as if there was no fight. This instant, it is said, in Derry, that the French are taken. I hope this will end their expeditions to this country.

" P. S. I keep this open till three o'clock, in hopes of being able to inform you of their being brought in. I believe if the French had landed, they would have got none to join them. This place is very peaceable."

The above firing was diffincly heard by feveral genemen all round the coast, even as far as the White-ouse in this Lough on Friday last. The result is anxionfly expected. The Island of Tory, off which the victory of Sir J. B. WARREN is said to have been gained, lies 20 miles west of the mouth of Lough Swilly, (county of Dotegal)—to which place there is every reason to believe the French seet was bound.

OCTOBER TE

We are forry to observe, that a spirit of insubordination begins to manifest itself amongst the peasantry of the west, in acts of violence and minute. A very respectable gentleman at Glandore had a flack of corn burnt; and, but for the immediate affiliance given, an entire haggard would have been confumed. At Beerhaven, we have the most respectable authority for flating, that the most violent measures have been referred to by the country people. Great quantities of corn and potatoes have been destroyed, under the stale preject of table oppression—a man had his cars cut off, and the Rev. Mr Beams and Mr Horners, were forced to fly from the popular resentment, and take shelter in Bantry.

On the night of Tuesday last, a sericant and sive men of the Royal Dublin militia, placed at an out-post of their camp near Kilcullen bridge, were attacked by about 30 armed rebets. The foldiers desended themselves so gallantly as to kill sive and take prisoners three of the assailants; the rest made their scape. The ferjeant, whose name is West, received next day the public thanks of General Duknas, and will, no doubt be handsomely rewarded for his gallantsy. table gentleman at Glandore had a flack of corn burnt

They then proceeded to the house of John Hall, a serjeant in the Cassletown corps, whom they murdered, with circumstances of savage barbarity too shocking to mention. One of the Hall's lived long enough to give information against three of his popula neighbours who were concerned in this horrid deed.— Thus these four honest and loyal subjects fell a sacrifice to the blind fury of fanaticism, merely because they were Protestants! Early yesterday morning, the shop of Mr. Davis, rocer, head of the West Port, was broke into, and the locks of several drawers, desks, &c. were forced open. The depredators carried off about fix pounds in halfpence, two pounds in farthings, fix or leven five shilling notes, and feven dollars.

This ought to be a caution to shop keepers not to leave money in their tills under night.

ADDRESS OF THE LEGISLATIVE BODY, TO THE VARIOUS NATION, AGREED TO BY THE TWO COUNCILS.

" Ar the moment when the Legislative Body, pe netrated with the importance of its august duties, gives to the generous people whom it represents the useful institution of military conscription, circumstances of great importance demand a speedy application of its provisions, and require the immediate benefit of its effects. By a fudden operation of that law, two hundred thousand citizens are called upon to fhare the honour of defending their country. It is not that they abandon the hope, or renounce the defire of a speedy peace. They never shave ceased to figh for that moment, that happy and glorious moment, when our common mother, feated upon the trophies of her children, might lay afide the fword, and devote her whole attention to the improvement of agriculture, to the peaceable purfuit of fcience, to the brilliant inventions of national industry and pacific arts. Too much care, however, cannot be employed to diffipate the clouds which threaten the political horizon of Europe. The French Republic has made all the facrifices for peace which her humanity dictated and which her glory allowed. Wanting nothing but the will to conquer and to fubdue, the Republic had the courage to arrest its course in the midit of its tri-umphs. If, however, certain erocuned prize-fighters farblites courones), little corrected by their numberies (athlier courones), little corrected by their numberiels defeats, still are defirous anow to open the lists, then, by the solumn voice of the two great powers of the state, it will again give the signal of victory; and you, Frenchmen, you will answer with an unanimous cry, "We are ready! What nation calls for its deliverance? What King is sired of reigning?"

"The indulgent Republic has left on their thrones

Jonald Kerr, tenant in Killiemore James Millar, tenant in Merynahigli Robert Kerr, and six subtenants of L Angut M'Killop, tenant in Balliary kings who were guilty of aggression against it; but it has not left them the right of violating treaties, and continuing with impunity war in the midst of peace. Numerous and powerful motives will easily reanimate against them your magazinmous resentment. And who among you has forgotten the calamities which France n compelled to bear during a long and terrible war? It was not enough that an impious league was formed to annihilate the infant Republic. It was not enough that the French territory was stained with sacrilegious standards. Our intestine divisions, the crimes of rival factions, the civil war kindled in the western departments, fanaticism inflaming the credulous popu-lace, ruin and devastation overspreading our fertile fields:—are not all these calamities the work of haugh-ty England, and some obedient kings, who declared themselves at once the agents and the pensionaries of the English Government? Have we not feen their judges open up in our Courts the arraignment of Liber-ty? Have we not feen their representatives within the the facred walls where the majefty of the French people refide? And, ye unfortunate old men, ye plaintive mothers, if folitude reigns in your cottages, if, unbending under your ruftic roofs, you call in vain the fons who should have soothed your last moments, and shut your dying eyes; those sons, those heroes, escaped from so many battles, have falled under the daggers of hired affassins, and their unhonoured corples have dyed with blood our indignant rivers. Not even a grave have they found in this immedie Republic, sounded, cemented, aggrandized by themselves. Royalism cut them off in the midst of a people who had abolished royalty. Their last sighs, their last looks, implored the absent Republic; and, if the interest of all Europe now solicits peace, their ashes and your solicits e facred walls where the majesty of the French peo-Europe now folicits peace, their aftes and your folitary tears still cry for vengeance.

"The arms of the Republic have overcome all ob-flacles, and proftrated all their enemies. At the begin ning of the war the fladtholderate had connected itself with the destinies of England. The Roman theocracy launched against us the exhausted thunders of the Vatican; the Helvetic confederacy protected all the con-fpirators banished from the French territory. Five years have fcarcely elapfed, and the stadholderate is o-verthrown, the Roman theocracy is humbled with the ditu, and the Helvetic oligarchy annihilated. In the place of tyrants and adverfaries, we fee republics and friends. Upon an element which fometimes baffles the most "fublime courage, Fortune may for a moment have forsaken the defenders of their country!!" Glory has every where purfued them!! The ocean has buried fome of our heroes, but not their never dying renown. England, affrighted at her triumph, awaits with melan-choly difmay the inevitable blow which is to stab her to the heart, and to revenge the two worlds!! Woe to the inconfiderate monarchs whom her corrupting gold shall feduce into new wars! * * * [Here follows

" Let not the Governments which yet are willing to tempt the dangers of war, hope to weaken our ef forts by fowing divisions among us. Long and cruel experience has taught us to despise those homicidal denominations which create and perpetuate factions. Vainly shall they attempt to oppose to each other the power er which executes the laws. They shall march closely knit, indisfolubly united .-They shall march closely knit, inditionally united.— The spirit by which they are equally animated, is a sincere and constant desire of peace. But it is of a peace glorious for France and her allies; it is at the same time the invincible resolution of repling by force every infult offered to the dignity of the Republic.— Pathers of families, blefs your children whose services our common mother require. Inspire them with your praifes; the efteem of age is flattering to courage, and their glory will be reflected upon your grey hairs. thers! Wives retain not their generous fteps; animate their heroilm by your commands; hurry them on to glory, let them halten to reap their share of that which is the inheritance of every Frenchman! And you, ye young defenders of your country, fly! Your brothers in arms await you. You will find in the armies the example of living beroes, and the memory of the heroes who have fallen in the cause of liberty. Hoche and Marceau on the banks of the Rhine; Laharpe and Stengel on the ban ks of the Hendan, repose amidst the glory of their explo its. On their tombs you will shed the tears of gratitud; and of religious respect, and if the hour of battle arrives, you will swear on their ashes to die victorious."

DUMFRIES-SFIRE.

LANDS IN MID AND WEST LOTTERAS AND DUMFRIES-SHIRE.

THERE will be exposed to sale, in the course of next summer, THE FOLLOWING LANDS AND ESTATES, L. The Lands and Estate of COSTERTOWN, with the mansion-house, teinds, and pertinents thereof, lying within the parish of Crichton, and aherifidom of Edinburgh.

II. The Lands and Barony of INGLISTOWN, comprehending the lands of EASTER BRIGGS, with the pertinents lying within the parish of Kirkliston, and sherifidorns of Edinburgh and Linhithgow respectively.

III. The Lands and Barony of BATHGATE, with the teinds thereof, comprehending the BURGH of BARONY of BATHGATE, and liberties and privileges thereto belonging—and the Lands of NORTHBANK, and parts of the Lands of TARTRAVEN, with the teinds and pertinents thereof, all lying within the parish of Bathgate, and sheriffdom of Linhithgow.

IV. The Lands and Estate of WAMPHRAY, and Lands of WILLOES, KILBROOK, POLDEAN, and MILKY-MOSS, with the teinds and pertinents thereof, all lying within the parish of Wamphray, late stewartry of Annandale, and sheriffdom of Dumfries, together with the right of patromage of the parish and parish chausch of Wamphray.

These estates are of considerable extent, and are in general extremely low rented at present. There is a valuable coal upon the estate of Bathgate, and at the town of Bathgate there is a great demand for feus for houses and yards.

The time and place of sale, and other particulars, will be afterwards advardsed. In the mean while, persons desirous of further information may apily to Mr Keith, accomptant, Edinburgh, or to Mess Dundas and Robertson, clerks to the signet.

LANDS IN PERTHSHIRE

LANDS IN PERTHSHIRE To be Sond by public auction, within the Royal Exchange Coffeehouse, on Thursday the 15th day of November next at 6 o'clock afternoon,
THE LANDS and ESTATE of KINCARDINE, with

THE LANDS and ESTATE of KINCARDINE, with the extensive Woods thereof, and certain Crofts, within the Burgh of Ochterarder, lying in the parishes of Blackford and Ochterarder, and shire of Perth, halfway between Pertii and Stirling.

The Lands are of great extent, and capable, as the lands of that vicinity are well known to be, of very great improvement at a moderate expense; and there are excellent situations for a mansion-house, and great scope for laying out pleasure ground.

The present rent is about 4001, and the leases expire at 1802. It affords a freehold qualification in the county.

The title-deeds, rentals, and leases are in the hands of Mr Campbell, St James's Square, to whom any offer for a private bargain, previous to the day of sale, may be sent.
